BIOGRAPHY

Kim is a shareholder at Katz Korin Cunningham and concentrates her practice on providing legal counsel to hospitals, physicians, nurse practitioners, and other health care providers in litigation pending in courts and before administrative agencies throughout the state of Indiana. She has handled a wide variety of matters for health care providers ranging from medical malpractice and professional liability to commercial litigation, credentialing and peer review.

Kim also regularly provides advice regarding regulatory and compliance issues, contracting and employment matters and clinical and administrative policies. She also handles matters involving the protection of private patient information and claims relating to the release of private patient information. She has experience serving as First and Second Chair in both jury and bench trials, and has presented oral argument to the Indiana Court of Appeals and Indiana Supreme Court.
